THE NORTH AMERICAN LP GAS MARKET

▶ North American remains the largest producer and consumer of LP Gas worldwide. It also continues to lead the industry with innovation in a wide variety of applications. However like developed markets everywhere, it faces formidable competition from natural gas and the steady growth in renewable energy use. This is especially true with the advent of what some experts are calling the 'shale gas revolution' which we are just beginning to feel the effects of. With all these changes, the North American market remains a market to watch.

LATIN AMERICAN LP GAS MARKETS

▶ Stretching from the northern deserts of Mexico to the frozen wastes of Tierra del Fuego and including the Caribbean markets, Latin American LP Gas markets are some of the world's most dynamic. Anchored by giants Mexico and Brazil, the region continues to grow and is pioneering new technology and innovation. Today the region is responsible for nearly 20% of the global domestic demand.

given its powerhouse status as an international business city and Miami is a major centre and a leader in finance, commerce, culture, media, entertainment, the arts, and international trade. You will feel the cultural diversity of this popular and attractive city. THE VENUE

▶ InterContinental Miami. The InterContinental Hotel Miami is located in downtown Miami, Florida, 12 km from Miami International Airport. Built in 1982, the hotel soars majestically into the skyline on Chopin Plaza adjacent to Bayfront Park, located at the confluence of Biscayne Bay and the Miami River. A Miami luxury hotel, it was the first in the area to cater to the discerning business elite when it was designed and built by famed architect Pietro Belluschi. Boasting the only lobby in the world built around a work of art, the hotel's Spindle sculpture made of travertine marble by sculptor Henry Moore is the breathtaking focal point of a grand lobby constructed in Italian marble slabs and precious African wood. The hotel was originally designed to be a casino but never operated as such. Instead, it has earned a reputation as Florida's premier luxury hotel, an iconic part of Miami history. This first class hotel also offers an in-house convention centre which makes it a perfect venue for the 27th World LP Gas Forum & 29th AIGLP Congress.
